Definitions

What is an electioneering communication?

An "electioneering communication" is a broadcast, cable, or satellite communication that clearly identifies a candidate for state office, is publicly distributed within 60 days before a general election for the office sought by the candidate, or within 30 days before a primary election, or a convention or caucus of a political party that has the authority to nominate a candidate, for the office sought by the candidate. The communication also must be targeted to the relevant electorate (see definition below).

A communication is not an electioneering communication if it appears in a news story, commentary, or editorial distributed through the facilities of any broadcast, cable or satellite television, or radio station, unless such facilities are owned or controlled by a political party, political committee, or candidate and the communication is not a news story that meets the requirements described in Code of Federal Regulations, title 11, section 100.132 \(a\) and \(b\). A communication is not an electioneering communication if it is publicly circulated through a means of communication other than a broadcast, cable, or satellite television or radio station, constitutes an expenditure or independent expenditure (see section 10A.01), constitutes a candidate debate or forum, solely promotes a candidate debate or forum and is made by or on behalf of the person sponsoring the debate or forum, or is paid for by a candidate for state office.

What constitutes broadcast, cable, or satellite communication?

"Broadcast, cable, or satellite communication" is a communication that is publicly distributed by a television station, radio station, cable television system, or satellite system.

What does publicly distributed mean?

"Publicly distributed" means aired, broadcast, cablecast, or otherwise disseminated through the facilities of a television station, radio station, cable television system, or satellite system.

What does targeted to the relevant electorate mean?

A communication is "targeted to the relevant electorate" when it is receivable by 10,000 or more persons in the candidate's district, which includes the entire state if the candidate is seeking statewide office. If application of the following formulas results in a determination that a communication is receivable by 10,000 or more persons in the candidate's district, that results in a rebuttable presumption that may be overcome as described below.

If the communication is transmitted by FM radio and any portion of the candidate's district with a population of 10,000 or more lies within the radio station's or network's protected or primary service contour, the communication is presumably targeted to the relevant electorate. If the communication is transmitted by AM radio and any portion of the candidate's district with a population of 10,000 or more lies within the radio station or network's most outward service area, the communication is presumably targeted to the relevant electorate.

If the communication appears on a television broadcast station or network and any portion of the candidate's district with a population of 10,000 or more lies within the station's or network's Grade B broadcast contour, the communication is presumably targeted to the relevant electorate. If the population of the candidate's district that lies within the station's or network's Grade B broadcast contour, when combined with the viewership of that station or network by cable and satellite subscribers within the district but outside the broadcast contour, is 10,000 or more, the communication is presumably targeted to the relevant electorate.

If the communication appears exclusively on a cable or satellite television system and not on a broadcast station or network, and the viewership of the cable system or satellite system lying within the candidate's district is 10,000 or more, the communication is presumably targeted to the relevant electorate. If the communication appears on a cable television network and the total cable and satellite viewership within the candidate's district is 10,000 or more, the communication is presumably targeted to the relevant electorate.

To determine the viewership of a cable or satellite system, the number of subscribers within a district is multiplied by the average household size for Minnesota as determined by the U.S. Census Bureau (currently 2.46). A rebuttable presumption may be overcome by demonstrating that one or more cable or satellite systems did not carry the network on which the communication was publicly distributed at the time of distribution, and that applying the formula to any remaining cable and satellite systems results in a determination that the cable network or systems upon which the communication was publicly distributed could not be received by 10,000 individuals or more.

What does “person” mean when reporting an electioneering communication?

"Person" means an individual, an association, a political subdivision, or a public higher education system.

What is the disclosure date?

The "disclosure date" refers to the first date that an electioneering communication is publicly distributed after the person making the communication has made disbursements or executed contracts to make disbursements totaling more than $10,000 within a calendar year for the direct costs of producing or airing electioneering communications. There will be a new disclosure date, and reporting obligation, each time that the $10,000 threshold is exceeded and an electioneering communication is publicly distributed within the same calendar year.

What are direct costs of producing or airing electioneering communications?

"Direct costs of producing or airing electioneering communications" are costs charged by a vendor, including studio rental time, staff salaries, costs of video or audio recording media, and talent; and the cost of airtime on broadcast, cable, or satellite radio and television stations, studio time, material costs, and the charges for a broker to purchase the airtime.

Who is a clearly identified candidate?

A candidate is "clearly identified" when a candidate's name, nickname, photograph, or drawing appears, or the identity of the candidate is otherwise apparent through an unambiguous reference such as "the governor," "your legislator," or "the incumbent," or through an unambiguous reference to the candidate's status as a candidate such as "the [political party] gubernatorial nominee" or "the [political party] candidate for senate."

Does the communication need to include a disclaimer?

An electioneering communication must include a disclaimer in the same manner as required for campaign material under section 211B.04, subdivision 1, paragraph \(c\).

Who are individuals sharing or exercising direction or control?

"Individuals sharing or exercising direction or control" are officers, directors, executive directors or the equivalent, partners, and in the case of unincorporated organizations, owners, of the entity or person making the disbursement for the electioneering communication.
